Level 38: The Seeker Becomes the Seer

It seems that we are all playing the role of a guide or teacher to the people that come into our lives. As we have progressed through the various levels of our work we all have learned to channel more and more energy. Some seers have looked at our auric field and have seen a number of layers to this luminous energy field. With the appropriate intent, our energy is allowed to flow - channeling peace, harmony, laughter, and knowledge directly from Source, from intent and transmit them to whomever is willing to receive this flow of energy.

They say that perception is a condition of alignment; the emanations inside the auric field become aligned with those outside that fit them. Alignment is what allows awareness to be cultivated by every living creature. Seers make these statements because they see living creatures as they really are: luminous beings that look bubbles of whitish light. The emanations inside and the emanations outside are the same filaments of light. Sentient beings are minute bubbles made out of those filaments, microscopic points of light, attached to the infinite emanations.

The luminosity of living beings are made by a particular portion of the emanation from Source they happen to have inside their luminous auric field. (The concept (definition) of emanation; is a flow of energy from Source that assists our development or evolutionary process in going from a dense state to a more luminous state.) People, who have the ability to see, witness that the luminosity of the outside of their auric field brightens the luminosity of the emanations inside their auric field (inside and outside). The outside luminosity attracts the inside luminosity and fixes or joins the emanations. That fixation is the awareness of every individual being. Everyone has their own unique awarenesses created by this fixation. The amount of pressure that the emanations from outside the auric field place on the portion of emanations inside determines the degree of awareness that every living being has. (This pressure can also be felt on the physical body.)

Emanations from source are more than filaments of light; each filament is a source of boundless energy. We need to master the art of handling awareness. (Diane and Loren have been told by the guides that by manipulating the structure of the human auric field; we can unravel the mystery of being aware. They saw and realized that awareness is a glow in the auric field of all living beings, called the Glow of Awareness. Our human awareness is a glow of amber luminosity that is more intense than the rest of the auric field. This glow is on a narrow, vertical band on the extreme right side of the auric field, running along its entire length. The mastery of the people who could see was to move that glow, to make it spread from its original setting on the surface of the auric field inward across its width. Loren and Diane have been shown how to do this portion of this level (notice, “a portion” – there are many layers to this level, this is only one part.) When you are in states of heightened awareness, you feel complete; nothing will be missing from your physical beingness. This is some of the work that we will be doing with this level.)

Seeing is to lay bare the core of everything, to witness the unknown and to glimpse into the unknowable. As such, it doesn't bring one solace. Seers ordinarily go to pieces on finding out that existence is incomprehensibly complex and that our normal awareness constricts it with its limitations.

There are untold dangers in the path of knowledge for those without sober understanding on their way to finding out the truths about awareness. Everybody falls prey to the mistake that seeing is done with the eyes. Seeing is alignment. Perception is alignment. Alignment of emanations used routinely is the perception of the day-to-day world, but the alignment of emanations that are never used ordinarily is seeing. When such an alignment occurs one sees. Seeing, therefore, being produced by alignment out of the ordinary, cannot be something one could merely look at.

When a person who has the ability to see is in alignment, a voice tells them (inner knowing) what's what. So it is like the voice of seeing. When in true alignment, seeing is like the glow of awareness playing on the Source's emanations as a harpist plays on a harp.

Emanations on the inside of the auric field are always in motion. When emanations at large (from outside the auric field) bear down on a seers auric field, they will make the emanations on the inside of the auric field stop moving and align. Thus meaning that they will sense something indescribable (the unknown becomes known), the meaning of which they know without a shadow of doubt. The voice of seeing has told them that the emanations inside the auric field are completely at rest and match some of the emanations which are on the outside. The real trick of awareness is to let the fixating emanations merge with what is inside us. (It awakens the unknown inside our auric field.) Seers believe that if we let that happen we become what we really are – fluid, forever in motion, eternal. The degree of awareness of every individual being depends on the degree to which they are capable of letting the pressure of the emanations at large come in and become a part of their knowing.

In order to have the ability to see, you must be able to channel a lot of energy and use your energy wisely. Since every one of us want to see, we need to abstain from wasting our glow of awareness. (And you know where you spend a lot of your energy.)

Over the course of time, in your process of seeking and acquiring more knowledge and experience, a band of the emanations inside the auric field becomes very bright, as human beings accumulate experience, it begins to glow. In some instances, the glow of this band of emanations increases so dramatically that it fuses with the emanations from the outside. Seers, witnessing an enhancement of this kind, had to surmise that awareness is the raw material and attention the end product of maturation. You just have to learn to pay attention so you can harness and enhance your awareness just through the process of being alive. Being attentive is man's greatest single accomplishment. It develops from raw animal awareness until it covers the entire gamut of human alternatives. Seers have perfected this even further until it covers the whole scope of human possibilities. This is the way Diane sees.

In the process of learning, one needs to be open and flexible to the possibilities. Human possibilities belong to the unknown. They are not what we are capable of choosing but what we are capable of attaining. An example of human alternatives is our choice to believe that the human body is an object among objects. An example of human possibilities is the seers' achievement in viewing man as an egg like luminous being. With the body as an object one tackles the known, with the body as a luminous egg, one tackles the unknown; human possibilities have, therefore, nearly an inexhaustible scope.

In the beginning of our quest it was as if we had to develop our animal instincts or awareness. This awareness has developed through the process of experience, into a complex, intricate and extremely fragile faculty that takes care of the day-to-day world in all its innumerable aspects. We learn to take information in using all of our intuitive instincts. This is how one becomes a seer. In this basic attentive skill, a seer sees a glow of awareness develop into an ultra shine in the auric field but it is a glow fixed on the surface. It is a glow that covers the unknown.

What about the unknown? This is a more complex and specialized state of the glow of awareness when it's dealing with the unknown. It comes about when unused emanations inside an individual's auric field are utilized. In order to utilize unused emanations you need to think outside the box using uncommon, elaborate tactics that require supreme discipline and concentration. I guess I would compare this to day dreaming with a purpose. Concentration is a form of consciousness that is not in the same category as the consciousness needed to deal with the daily world. Unknown attention is almost like using the right-side awareness of your brain and it is the vastest field that one can imagine, so vast in fact that it seems limitless. You don't just go to this area until you have developed your skills of concentration. This area is a quagmire so complex and bizarre that you only go there under the strictest conditions. How many of you have a "Fear of the Unknown?" We are not saying, "Don't ever go there." We are saying don't go there now, wait until you have had this level done, we will unlock the doors to go there in the future. We need to assist you in becoming masters of awareness.

There are many bands or layers inside the auric field and not all the bands of awareness are active at this time. As we proceed on our quest for learning, more bands of the unknown will be activated and our auric field will glow brighter and brighter.

This level of work involves assisting you in quieting the mind which will help you develop your power of concentration. We are treading on the ground very cautiously with this level. We (Loren and Diane) will be connecting these layers upon layers of emanations in your auric field.

As you master this level an inner warmth or glow will be ignited. Your body will start to feel like this heat or warmth is coming from deepest recesses of your physical being. For the new seer to attain this level of awareness is a true gift. It is more like a reward for attainment.

In past life-times, at the moment of dying, all human beings entered into the “unknowable” and some individuals do attain this level of attention after going through an intense cleansing process before reconnecting with Source.

The supreme accomplishment of human beings is to attain this level of attention while retaining the life-force.

Emanations are something indescribable. They are like filaments of light. The filaments are aware of themselves, alive and vibrating, there are so many of them that numbers have no meaning and that each of them is an eternity in itself.

This level is a very intense and time consuming on our part. We can only work on one individual at a time and this will take a number of evenings to complete over a period of weeks. There is a readiness factor on the part of the individual which will be described in the assignment section of this level. You must have done Level 37 in order to do this level. Cost: $999.00.
