Level 41: Point of Intent

Many people perceive exclusively with their eyes. Your perception, as we continue to say, is so much more complex than that. As you open your perception to other possibilities of awareness, many of you are quite careless; you may think that all you perceive is simply average sensory perception. How many of you had a sense of anxiety around the times of the earthquakes in Haiti, Chile, or off the coast of Oregon. Energy of a geographical area could also change as the result of politics, local government procedures, or physical changes happening to the earth.

All animals can detect changes of energy in an area, in their surroundings, areas with special levels of energy. As you become more in tune with your surroundings, you can also sense areas of Earth that can assist you in rejuvenating your physical energy. These sites are usually found in nature. When you find these areas and open every cell of your body to take in this flow of energy, you in turn can expand your area of perception to sense the areas around you.

If you look at our work, it has a flow that assists people in increasing their vibration rate incrementally over a period of time. The particular sequence of the various levels of work I am talking about stems from awareness. As many people progress through this work, the orderly sequence at the time was important to follow. Now, for the most part, you can pick and choose which levels of our work you are drawn to. Ego or self importance does not play a role here. This is your personal journey. The choices you make to facilitate your personal vibrational rate serve as a springboard that automatically, without premeditation, help launch you further onto an inconceivable journey.

Diane and I have learned to function on a day-to-day basis with an open state of awareness, with notepad in hand, jotting down notes and information as it is presented. We keep expanding our states of awareness. Located in the universe is an energy, an indescribable force that we could call intent. Everything that exists in the entire universe is attached or connected in some way to intent. We have learned that we can get to this state of intent by quieting the mind, much like meditation. This next level of work helps you to expand your mind and to perceive and think multi-dimensionally.

As your states of awareness become more intense, you can gain more knowledge directly from intent, without the distracting intervention of spoken language. You are developing more and more of your inner knowing. Throughout history, seekers of awareness have struggled to gain specific insights into intent. We have searched for these valuable nuggets of information or knowledge that have been passed down to the present time through stories and pictographs. We take these seemingly incomprehensible bits of knowledge and make it understandable by the standards of awareness of our daily life. For each of us who have been on this path or quest for knowledge, our life has been what seems to be an endless “need” for learning. In this sense we appear “needy.” There are very few people who need no one. They receive peace, harmony, laughter, and knowledge, directly from spirit, God or Source. They need no intermediaries.

It seems as though the powers to be (spirit, God, Source) has put together everything in the form of riddles. We have to project ourselves beyond our human conditions. We have to go beyond the third dimensional brain to be more conscious, more aware and able to logically progress through our multi-dimensionality and it all starts with intent. This is not the intent that you normally think of.

We truly feel that the intent that we are trying to explain exists in the void. So everything that exists came from nothing. Nothing is the source of everything that is. That which became everything is that nonmaterial spiritual essence. That’s what you can experience in a deep state of meditation. The fundamental mystical insight throughout the ages is basically this: that the ultimate essence of everything that exists is this nothingness. In the absolute emptiness prior to the big bang there was still the infinite potential for everything that would be created.

Before we continue we want to make sure we are on the same page and talk about a few basic beliefs.

1. The Universe is made up of an infinite number of agglomerated energy fields that resemble clustered threads of light.
2. These energy fields radiate and immerge from God or Source.
3. We as human beings are also made up of number of threadlike energy fields. These energy fields make up our aura. A giant egg shaped luminous field of energy.
4. There are small groupings of energy fields inside this egg shaped luminous ball. These energy fields are lit up by a point of intense brilliance that is located on the egg shaped luminous field.
5. Our awareness or perception occurs when the energy fields in that small group immediately surrounding the point of brilliance extend their light to illuminate identical energy fields outside the egg shaped ball of energy.

6. This point of brilliance has the ability to move and flow on and within your auric field. It has the ability to light up whatever energy field it comes in contact with, lighting up new energy fields of awareness and perception. This perception is known as seeing.
7. When this point of brilliance moves or shifts, it expands your perception multi-dimensionally, as objective and factual world as the world we normally perceive. We as seekers go to these worlds to seek information, answers to our problems, to check out the energy and power or to just expand our horizons.
8. Intent is the pervasive force that causes us to perceive. We do not become aware because we perceive, we perceive as a result of the pressure and intrusion of intent.
9. Our goal as a seeker is to reach a state of total awareness in order to experience all the possibilities of perception available to a human. This state of awareness implies an alternative way of dying.

The human being takes the influx of sheer energy in the universe at large and turns it into sensory data, which they interpret according to a strict system of interpretation that we, who are on this path, call the human form. This magical act of interpreting pure energy gives rise to the misconception, the peculiar conviction of human beings that their “interpretations system” coming through their human form is all that exists.

For the most part we only give credence to what our visual sensory interpretation of everything that we come in contact with. We have been expanding our human sensory awareness. What is most difficult is we do not have language or a way to interpret the various things that we have perceived. Human beings are the kind of organisms that only need minimal input of pure perception in order to create and enhance their world. They perceive only enough to trigger their interpretation system.

You must have a willingness to suspend our most cherished beliefs. I am not speaking about suspending our good judgment, discerning intellect or common sense, but I am saying that we have to be willing to let go of whatever our deepest convictions are about the nature of life, love, purpose and meaning – or meaninglessness – of existence. We have to make room for the unknown. We have to make the effort to peer beyond what we already know. It is only beyond the boundaries of already knowing that we come upon that domain of unmanifested creative potential and higher knowledge that liberates and is new. There will always be infinitely more development at every level, more knowledge and ever-deepening enlightenment to unfold within us.

With this level, you will receive a stone that will assist you during meditation. It can be held or worn like a piece of jewelry. This will help further connect your physical body to your higher self. We still need to be physical and multi-dimensional at the same time. The energy of the stone will also help you remember patterns that you can refer to so you can repeat the patterns again and again eventually learning the pattern.

Your third dimensional brain becomes more like a multi-dimensional brain. We need to learn how to work from the abstract, learning not to deal only with our rational mind.

For a moment, I want you to think about the “things” you have around you. Do you have an attachment that is felt as a “need” for these things? As you think or look at these things, do you have a degree of attachment felt as need to these things? In our case, these things were books. Anything in your living space either takes your energy or supports your energy. The reason I bring this up is because I was saving a number of books written by a few authors that I like to read. I was looking at them the other day, sitting on the book shelf, literally collecting dust serving no purpose at all. At one time I had to own every book written by a certain author. I no longer feel that need. Are you surrounded by things that no longer serve you? It is time to lighten the load or energy around you. I can’t believe how different our house felt after the books were packed up and moved out of the living space.

Intending is the tacit act of filling out the empty spaces left by direct sensory perception, the act of enriching the observable phenomena by means of intending a completeness that doesn’t exist from the point of view of pure perception. Intent or the act of intending is not in the realm of the physical. It is not part of the physicality of the brain or any other organ. Intent transcended the world we know. It is something like an energetic wave, a beam of energy which attaches itself to us.

Visionaries have given examples of the consistency of energy in adopting specific configurations as the perception of the human body when it was seen directly as energy. The visual perception of a human being as a conglomerate of energy fields that gives the total impression of a clear-cut sphere of luminosity. When taken in this sense, energy is described as a vibration that agglutinates itself into cohesive units. Visionaries have described the entire universe as being composed of energy configurations that appear to the seeing eye as filaments or luminous fibers that are strung in every which way without ever being entangled.

We believe intent is a perennial force that permeates the entire universe, a force that is aware of itself to the point of responding to the beckoning or to the command of the seeker. By means of intent, we are capable of unleashing not only all the human possibilities of perceiving, but all the human possibilities of action. Remember that intent without action is nothing. Intent requires action.

By aligning the point of intention, the limitation of the human’s capability of perceiving, called the “band of man”, meaning there are no boundaries that marks human capabilities. These boundaries are not merely the traditional boundaries of orderly thought but the boundaries of the totality of resources locked within the human organism. This level unlocks resources that you have never been able to use, but kept in situ by preconceived ideas about human limitations, limitations that have nothing to do with actual human potential. The perception of energy as it flows in the universe is, in itself and by itself, the key that releases the locked-in-human potential that ordinarily has never entered into play.

Summing up, this is a level of creation. After all the practice with the dream state in the last few levels, we now can go into meditation and back to the beginning, the void, creating something out of nothing, a closer connection to God/Source. This will facilitate greater manifestation of your ideas, dreams, visions, etc. for you and mankind. You will be able to understand and/or communicate multidimensionally and have better access to multidimensional “intent” that is in the “unified field”. Your channeling of ideas and the fulfillment of bringing them into reality should become easier; you may be able to put “language” and to interpret messages with ease. This barely touches what this level is all about. We are still discovering all the nuances. Cost: $888.00. (A piece of jewelry comes with this level.)
