Level 47: Stolen Semiotics Energy Center

The purpose of the Semiotics Energy Center was to provide innovative, responsible and reliable knowledge from a variety of domains relevant to you and your interests, it was understood as the multidisciplinary source of information, meaning, communication, interpretation, sign systems and evolution, texts, interactions, communities, cultural and social transformations, sense-making and all other topics that may emerge from your inner research, models and theories.

It is believed that this energy center was somehow stolen or removed from the inside out at a very early age and it never returns to the physical body depriving us of something very important energetically.

At this point in time, this energy center is missing and may even have the appearance of a black hole, not even being there or may appear to be a dark tarlike substance.

This energy center has a special type of energy. It appears to the individual who has the ability to use their sixth sense (your inner knowing), as possessing a unique transparency. Something you could describe as a clear water-like form of energy.

The purpose of this center of energy is to screen vibration-like information or data that is coming to us. It acts like a filter or decoder that makes illegible information to this human form legible or more understandable. At present, this information comes from a very high vibrational place and gets fractured as it comes in to our dense atmosphere where other guides/beings of a lower vibration get involved and provide incorrect information.

There are hundreds if not thousands of energy centers throughout the physical body and auric field. Can you imagine a conglomerate of thousands of twirling vortexes like pinholes, but very important pinholes that have a purpose we know nothing about other than allowing energy to flow freely through them? This is the main reason we have been telling everyone to think every cell of your body open to allow the energy to flow. It all makes sense now.

Clarity is a goal of this path, a necessary skill created and developed through the careful use of practices and primarily through the regaining of one's energy. But clarity in and of itself can be a difficult taskmaster in this world of compromises we call reality, the difficult choices and little white lies that we have come to know and love here, no longer serve our ultimate goals of movement and intent. The most difficult aspect of clarity, as it should be, is simply that we can no longer lie to ourselves and believe our self-deception. Because of this clarity can create paralysis when it comes into conflict with the necessary functions of our daily lives where we are trying very hard to hold a normal mask up to the world.

Seeing clearly has become more than just a laudable goal, necessary for the movement on our journey of truth, but a risky venture within itself, not because of clarity, but because so many choose deliberately to be unclear and are willing to hurt you to stay that way.

The difficult aspect of our clarity now falls squarely on action, the need to act and the society that says if we do we will be punished either directly or indirectly. Previously you could ‘agree’ or ‘disagree’ with people, in general it didn’t mean a lot other than maybe not getting invited when someone was having a gathering of some sort. But in the complex world we live in now, agreeing or disagreeing implies an action is necessary, or no action, which still acts as an active position of intent. Disagreeing with people now can get you fired from your job or ostracized.

So here we arrive, all the work, the training, the beating yourself in the head with a mallet to enter a real state of clarity, only to find that the more you know and see clearly, the less you can say and remain a functioning part of your social milieu.

With clarity can come paralysis. The unenviable position of seeing clearly (knowing) and having it verified through events, but the inability to say anything due to the personal risks involved, the price that has to be paid.

Another way in which clarity comes back on us is in how we see our own situations in the world, although we struggle with them internally as a matter of course, the real issues confronting us often come through clarity in a way that makes us very unhappy.

It starts with finding out the truth about your own nature, understanding who you are, then clarity about other people, social systems, entire governments, but in that process you are left more and more unable to move along the lines of your clarity. Ancient energy workers just didn’t have this problem; they staked out their territory and worked their craziness full time. We are not in that position if we choose to remain involved with our culture today. There is a way through it, we just have to learn from the past and be very creative in developing our personal methods of expression in whatever mode we choose.

This center helps you develop your inner knowing for decisions that you need to make. What we are trying to say in the above dialogue is to share your knowledge and information discretely using discernment. Speak in parables or stories if need be which allows others to come up with the decision you have made.

If you are,

- A channel or bringer of information
- A healer
- An artist or creative inspirationalist
- Are an inventor
- A writer
- A daydreamer

Or if you are any of the following... some psychic terms:

Adept: a word used to label functional psychic generally; specific ability is much more specialized.

Telepathy: (touch and non-touch or open) the ability to pick up thoughts from others. A telepath.

Precognition: the ability to correctly predict future events. A seer.

Telekinesis: the ability to move objects with the mind.

Telepathic Mind Control: the ability to influence/control others through mental focus and effort. Extremely rare ability.

Empathy: experiencing the emotions of others. An empath.

Healing Empathy: the ability to not only feel but also heal the pain/injury of another. An empath.

Mediumistic: the ability to communicate with the dead. A medium.

Psychometric: the ability to pick up impressions from objects.

Regenerative: the ability to heal one's own injuries/sicknesses.

Dream-Projecting: the ability to enter another/s dreams.

Spider-Sense: the ability to enhance one's normal senses (sight, hearing, taste, touch and smell) through concentration and the focusing of one's own mental and physical energy.

Claircognizant: You may be claircognizant or intuitive and have an inner knowing about things. The information, idea, concept or thought "just comes to you" and has the feeling of "this is important". The knowledge you receive often flashes suddenly into your mind seemingly "out of nowhere". You may know who is on the phone before you answer it or know personal things about people you just met. You just know something, although you may not know why or how you know it.

Clairaudient: You may be clairaudient and psychically hear sounds, words, sentences, thoughts, tones, music, bells, chimes, ringing, whooshing, buzzing, white noise sounds, songs, and other types of sounds or noises that "pop into your head". You may hear conversations as you fall asleep or wake up between people you may not see. These sounds and words are inaudible to the normal hearing range and most often seem to come from within your head or "out of nowhere".

Clairvoyant: You may also be clairvoyant and see pictures flash in your mind's inner third eye as in-sights. These pictures come as a clear vision or they may be nebulous forms hidden in a cloudy substance. What you see may appear to be superimposed upon a solid object that's in front of you when your eyes are open or you may see the vision within your forehead when your eyes are closed. When the image is of a psychic origin and you aren't thinking it up yourself, the image is seen first and then thought about. It is usually not thought up and then seen. You may psychically see a person, scene, object, lights, words, colors, auras, symbols, past lives, loved ones in spirit, visions of the past, present or future, and people or places in other spiritual dimensions. These pictures may appear as if you are viewing still photographs or they may be moving like a home movie. You may even feel you are actually in the scene you are seeing.

Clairsentient: You may also be clairsentient and perceive information through a sensation within your physical body. You may get a "gut feeling" in your stomach of what to do or say. You may also get a "gut feeling" of what not to say or do. You may even sense the body aches and ill health of someone else not in the room in specific parts of your own physical body. You may also feel the emotions or personality of another person whom you do not know personally or who is not in the room. You may sense the presence of deceased relatives, guides, and angels.

Clairgustant: You may be clairgustant and psychically taste a substance, liquid or food without actually putting anything in your mouth.

Clariscentrist: You may also be clariscentrist and psychically smell fragrances, flowers, perfume or other odors such as tobacco or alcohol even when a substance or food is not in your immediate surroundings.

Then you would want to consider this level because it truly filters, provides discernment and helps you to interpret information from the other side. This includes ALL information received for your spiritual, emotional, mental and physical bodies. Many times the guides from lower vibrations will interfere with the information provided from the higher vibrational guides. This at times will provide incorrect or too low of a vibration (data) for you, your family, friends, clients, etc. For instance the lower level guide may not be able to "tune into" what your higher vibrational body needs.

We repeat... The purpose of this center of energy is to screen vibration-like information or data that is coming to us. It acts like a filter or decoder that makes illegible information to this human form legible or more understandable. At present, this information comes from a very high vibrational place and gets fractured as it comes in to our dense atmosphere where other guides/beings of a lower vibration get involved and provide incorrect information. Cost $694.00
