Level 48: Awakening Our Dragon

With the passing of the Fall Equinox and the Full Moon, the various energies should have started to settle in and so we can process the latest dusting of issues that an insurgence of energy stirs up.

Dragons are coming again to us in all different colors. When this happens I start to pay attention to the Earth's lay lines. Anyway, that is what I thought I needed to pay attention to. Stepping backward from the thoughts that were buzzing around my head, I then felt I needed to pay attention to my own personal "lay lines" which are called meridians. Acupuncturists work with the flow of energy through the meridians and the blockages or pain which may occur when the energy is not flowing as it should.

Mythical until proven otherwise!

The dragon - thought to be a myth - is a symbol of strength and power - in many cultures. It often represents wisdom and is the companion of the magi, shaman or seer.

The dragon lives on the wind, swims in the ocean, and breathes fire - a balance of all the elements. Some cultures feared - and some cultures revered the dragon.

The quest for meaning and purpose is an inherent yearning to become a whole person, liberated from the fears that pervade the heart and mind and take control of one's life force: fear of being humiliated, of failure, of disapproval, of poverty. These fears prevent you, most of all, from being honest about whom you are, not just with others but with yourself. I am convinced that the deepest desire within each of us is to be liberated from the controlling influences of our own psychic madness or patterns of fear. All the other things that we battle against – the disdain of ordinary life, the need to control others rather than be controlled, the craving for material goods as means of security and protection against the winds of chaos – are external props that serve as substitutes for the real battle, which is the one waged within the individual soul. Not until you turn to face yourself head on, confronting one dragon sized fear at a time, can you truly come to know what it means to be empowered and liberated at the same time. Simply put, the meaningful life emerges from the choice to become congruent with your intuitive nature. As the spiritual masters have always taught, the place you are seeking is within you.

Axiatonal Lines lie along the acupuncture meridians and feed into major spin points that lie near the surface of the skin. Spin points are small spherical vortices of electromagnetic energy that emit Light and Sound frequencies which cause the atoms of molecules in the cells to spin faster. This increased spin creates Light fibers that then create a grid of cellular regeneration. We have been disconnected or cut off from the axiatonal lines. We re-establish the connection of the axiatonal lines to the Oversoul. Diane and I reconnect the severed axiatonal lines which then rejuvenates the axial circulatory system. Once the connection has been re-established, the Oversoul transmits the appropriate energies through the axiatonal lines to regenerate and re-harmonize the various bodies according to the Devine Blueprint.

The etheric body consists of many higher dimensional templates. The axiatonal lines feed into a 5th dimensional circulatory system known as the axial circulatory system, as well as the 4th dimensional acupuncture meridians. This flow of higher energy used to maintain the physical body and its organs, as well as the emotional and mental bodies in perfect harmony. When the axiatonal lines were severed, the axial circulatory system became dormant. The acupuncture meridians were left to draw just enough energy to sustain life.

For eons we have been severed from our Oversoul, limping along at subsistence levels of energy and continued a very karmic existence. Having no knowledge that an Oversoul existed; the lower self took on a life of its own, characterized by fear, self-will and pride. Eventually, the personality begins to realize that it is a part of a larger aspect of Self, and that this larger aspect of Self is in turn part of a larger Whole. By now, the yearning to reconnect with the rest of Self is getting stronger and stronger. With the Fall Equinox 2010, when our crystalline bodies connected to the Earth's crystal matrix, the time has come to reconnect the severed axiatonal lines. Our higher self has been held back from evolving.

We must first consciously seek re-integration with the higher self. We then must accept all aspects of ourselves unconditionally, by doing so we then can accept the Oneness of ourselves.

When we no longer see the polarity between Darkness and Light, we can rise above fear and move into Wholeness and start to express from that level in total Love.

The first thing that happens after being reconnected, the Oversoul starts to recharge the lower bodies which begins to revitalize them, and restores harmony and balance. All of the baggage that you have been carrying in the form of negative emotional and mental patterns can now be shed effortlessly with the assistance of the Higher Self and the Oversoul levels of Self. This allows greater room for Spirit to express itself through the physical body.

Another way of looking at this, you remember the physical body is surrounded by the emotional body, the mental body and the spiritual body. The geometry of these bodies has been described as a stack of double tetrahedrons (each body consists of two pyramids; one is inverted, so they share a common base plane.) Our Spirit is located in our physical body. You can compare the layered geometry of the various bodies to the Russian stacking or nesting dolls.

If you picture your physical body as the yoke of an egg, the white would be the emotional body and the mental body would be the impenetrable shell. The shell of an egg appears to be a very definite boundary, defining that which is inside from what is “out there.” In case some unwanted idea should find its way through the mental body’s shell of separation, our emotional body then shuts down, trapping rather than expressing that idea; it thus joins the mental body by providing an additional limitation to being able to receive and process ideas that originate outside the mental body “shell.”

Crack!!! Now this mental body has been opened and through this opening flows Light and Sound carried on the axiatonal lines. Reactivated, these lines serve to connect the physical body to our Oversoul, to Spirit as well as various remote star systems; we were cut off, made non-functional, so we could experience total separation.

Now, what you can expect after the axiatonal lines have been reconnected, we can receive energy and information directly from Source, via our Oversoul. The axiatonal lines and the spin points are actually part of our etheric blueprint as is the new axial circulatory system. This system connects the spin points that lie along the acupuncture meridians to spin points in every cell in our physical body. Cost $ 888.00 and includes 2 balances one month apart.
