

When we were finished with Level 50, we truly thought we were through with bringing through new levels of work. Over the past few months we still think that. As we were transitioning and integrating our personal lives, we felt a new shift or focus within our being. Thus, a new beginning for us and more information will follow on this.

Phase 2: New Beginnings

Chapter 1: Repairing the Fractured Multidimensional Energy Field

Oh, dear – another day of not quite “making” ourselves balanced... Do you have days like that? You start out OK, get a little unbalanced, center, stay there a bit, you remember all the techniques/suggestions, etc. about staying grounded, centered, balanced... then, Whammmm!!! You react to, well, not something within you... but some outside stimulus (come on I know it starts within me – but give me a break...). It may be something that has been building up about the same subject... or something entirely random. It doesn't matter... you “suddenly... have had it”... and the world, for a bit, becomes off kilter. So what is happening? What is going on?

What we have discovered is that we are really good at keeping our third dimensional bodies centered and balanced. It is the multidimensional balancing part of us that is throwing us out of kilter as we begin to merge into higher dimensions. We are merging into a very chaotic environment and we can't or don't know how to handle it here in the physical realm.

Look around your current environment. We all are in a third dimensional body existing in a third dimensional world. This phase of our work pertains to all third dimensional people, angels in the physical, and all non physical beings (angels, guides, masters, aliens, etc. that are having a third dimensional lifetime). For those that have an energy field, this work pertains to you also.

We are in the process of integrating our physical body into our multidimensional bodies and we are having a terrible time doing it. As we learn to increase our vibrational rate to include higher dimensions we are finding a jumble of fractured pieces of our multidimensional energy field. It is like a bag of energy full of broken dishes. We are a mess, broken and scattered about as a result of all the earth changes, traumas, volcanic eruptions, tornados, earthquakes, tsunamis, etc. Our energy field mirrors the energy field of Mother Earth. If there is trauma or chaos of any kind going on with Mother Earth, this same energy can be noticed within our aura and physical being.

Our physical third dimensional body has the answer. Our physical blueprint needs to be unlocked and expanded to include our multidimensional energy field, the “All of Us” blueprint. We have been able to bring everything back together but have not had the proper way of repairing the multidimensional energy field until now. We will have access to the blueprint and the correct glue to repair everything.

In our current universe, the tendency has always been toward entropy, disorder, decay and chaos that have taken place over a lifetime. Entropy is a measure of the amount of energy in a third dimensional system not available to do work. It becomes more disordered, and its energy becomes more evenly distributed, that energy becomes less able to do work. For example, a car rolling along a road has kinetic energy that could do work (by carrying or colliding with something, for example); as friction slows it down and its energy is distributed to its surroundings as heat, it loses this ability. The amount of entropy is often thought of as the amount of disorder in a system.

We, as living organisms, take in raw disorganized materials and build them into organized systems. The power of negative entropy, wears at our third dimensional existence, giving way to entropy only after the organism has been exposed to time. Our life then has existed and is somehow connected to a universe that exists in a negative space/time and the energies that are found there. We need to shift the polarity of negative entropy to one of harmony, calm and peace.

All the information for any organism exists within the DNA itself in terms of function. How do the “energetic” cells know what to re-differentiate into? How do they know, especially where to go?

The phenomenon is similar to the blastula stage of an embryo. Chemical messengers seem to be secreted in sequence, a polarity forms and newly differentiated cells go where they are suppose to – but we don’t know how...

Matter and energy are dual expressions of the same universal “substance,” and human beings are networks of complex energy fields that interface with highly condensed energy, or physical matter, which makes up cellular systems. When vibration is applied, this paradigm suggests that healing or repairing is a matter of correcting imbalances in the energy system.

It takes a leap of faith and ascribes reality to these vibrational frequency numbers, a remarkable thing happens – a mathematical mirror image of the “negative space/time universe” appears. In this universe, everything is reversed. Rather than gaining, particles lose mass as they accelerate and entropy decreases over time.

Our primary healing mechanism is vibration, which is why music is so essential. Healthy individuals here have a vibratory rate between two definite points, allowing for some variation corresponding to rising or falling enthusiasm, excitement, or whatever emotion causes a rate change. Since we have no fearful or angering circumstances to deal with, a rise from the normal rate is only for positive reasons. Arrivals have a much different set of rates, which are geared to their belief systems throughout life on Earth and the circumstances of physical life and death.

Something of interest dealing with vibration and sound, Brian T. Collins wrote an article on “The Importance of 432hz Music. He writes that 432 Hz vibrates on the principals of natural harmonics and unifies the properties of light, time, space, matter, gravity and magnetism with biology, the DNA code and consciousness. He states that 432 Hz, “Natural Tuning” has profound effects on consciousness and also on the cellular level of our bodies. By retuning musical instruments and using concert pitch at 432 hertz instead of 440 hertz, you can “feel” the difference of connecting to natural resonance. The best way to experience the 432 Hz difference is by listening.

You can go to <http://www.omega432.com/music.html> and listen to examples of both 432 and 440 to see how you feel the vibration. Can you feel how you are subconsciously responding to these tracks? 432 Hz relaxes you then 440 Hz tenses you up and 432 Hz brings you back into harmony. It is believed that the 440 Hz concert pitch is centered in the mind whereas 432 Hz concert pitch is centered in the heart. Some people, who are not able to distinguish the 8 Hz difference, claim they can feel 432 Hz warmer due to the longer wavelength. In either case, all agree that there are positive results in the listening experience at 432 Hz. Brian Collins has observed extremely agitated individuals physically relax their breath and bodies at the instant 432 Hz music is presented to them. When used along with energetic animals, it has the same calming and relaxing effect.

So... are you having another day of not quite “making” it balance? With this chapter of our work, we are starting the transition from physical third dimension beings to being a truly multidimensional physical being. The word “physical” no longer means third dimension. We will be repairing the fractured pieces of the multidimensional energy field so we can sustain the higher vibrations that we will be progressing toward. If you are living in your third dimensional body things will be getting worse and worse and deterioration will start to take place at a more noticeable rate. It is going to be like regular things are not going to work anymore. Your third dimensional body is only a part of your entire being, a minor part. With everything as it is now, we cannot channel the energy required to go forward.

Centering, balancing and grounding, no matter what you do, you have not been able to hold those energies and stay in your physical body... We will gather, collect, retrieve, fix, repair and we are literally talking about thousands of pieces to put together because we are going to repair the entire multidimensional energy field. What do we do? We put a permanent adherence to all the pieces until they meld together as one. Your multidimensional being will be awesome. You will finally be YOU. Cost: $1,900.00

The exercises that you will receive are crucial to the success to fully integrate the entire process.

Numerology wise related to the cost, 1900... 19/10/1 is a very powerful combination. It is symbolized as the Sun and is called the Prince of Heaven because it indicates victory over all temporal failure and disappointment. It also encompasses the compound number 10, which promises happiness and fulfillment – success in all ventures. Getting down to the number 1, which represents creativity, protection and benevolence and is the number of original action, the initiation basis of all other numbers or in other words it represents, “New Beginnings”.

We don't know yet if there are any more chapters to this phase of our work or if this phase of our life is complete. Who knows what lies in our future for it changes from moment to moment?
